

SPAIN

ÁNGEL PARADA

Business man with an outstanding career of over 30 years in communication, marketing and advertising. He has been an advisor to the General Directorate of Tourism of the Community of Madrid, he has served as an advisor to the Madrid Tourism Association and as a consultant on Gastronomy and Sustainability for the Ibero-American General Secretariat. He is the Vice President of the Royal Academy of Gastronomy, following seven years as Vice President of the Madrid Academy. His contributions include managing the Academy's communication and developing programs such as #QuébiensecomeenMadrid. He has also contributed to gastronomy sections in the newspapers 20minutos and El Confidencial, and acts as an advisor for the Extraordinary Chair of Circular Economy in Municipal Markets at the Francisco de Vitoria University and the City Council of Madrid.

